THE BOY WAS RIGHT.

He Knew the Proper Way to Eat, While His Father Did Not.

They came into the restaurant, a man and a boy, says the Detroit Free Press. The former wore the air of a business man out for his noonday lunch, and as it was Saturday it was easy to guess the boy was taking half his holiday helping in the office. The man sat with preoccupied air while waiting to be served and answered the boy's questions in an absent-minded way, which showed that he had not thrown business cares off. The boy chatted about this, snickered about that, fumbled his knife and fork until he dropped them and eyed every waiter who passed with a quizzical stare at the contents of his tray. And the manner of their eating was as different as the manner of their waiting. The man hustled his food down his throat as if he neither enjoyed it at the time nor expected to later.

The boy took time to arrange his side dishes to his own notion, those he liked best nearest to hand, and then went to work leisurely to take a sip of this, a taste of that or to season another to suit. He may have taken large mouthfuls—boys will—but he took plenty of time to talk between bites—boys will also do that. The father filled his mouth and washed the food down with scalding hot coffee. The boy got his coffee sugared and creamed just to suit him and then let it stand and cool off while he was eating. The father finished with lemon custard pie and gave his mouth a swipe with the napkin in precisely nine and three-quarter minutes from the time he broke ground on his cold roast beef, while the boy had only just laid aside his soup spoon and was working along toward the best parts of his chicken potpie.

"Can't wait for you, Fred," said the father, impatiently, after noticing the progress of the boy and looking at his watch; "I'll go on to the post office and stop in as I come back," and he went to pile a fresh load of responsibility on his mind while his stomach was groaning under a load of badly chosen food, hastily bolted under unfavorable conditions. When he came in five minutes later the boy sat with his knife and fork on a standstill between apple roll and rice pudding and kept the impatient man of business waiting two whole minutes longer while he finished it and drank his coffee.

"Pretty good lunch, papa," he said, cheerily.

"Stuff and rubbish," growled the man. "Always sets like lead. Afraid he won't be the man for business his father is, doctor," to a friend sitting at a table near by.

"There's where Mr. Blank is wrong," remarked the doctor to his companion, after the others had gone out of hearing, "and the boy is right. If he keeps on eating in that way he'll be an active, clear-headed business man ten years longer than his father will ever wear, with his boa-constrictor style of eating. No; the boy is right."

PAPER MADE FROM DIRT.

Latest Triumph of Science in Turning Waste Things to Use.

The Refuse Disposal Company, limited, in London, is engaged in the manufacture of paper from the contents of the dust bin, of which three per cent. at least is paper and rags, besides quite a quantity of straw and other rough material. The process, says the Paper World, is thus described: The dust on its arrival at the works is shot into a large revolving riddle having a three-inch mesh, through which the heavier and smaller matter finds its way, while the paper, rags, large bottles, tins, etc., are received at the delivery end of the riddle and are duly sorted by hand. The heavier materials which pass through this riddle are received on a traveling band and elevated to a second riddle having a one and a half inch mesh; at the delivery end of this second riddle an air blast blows the lighter materials away from the heavier; the lighter portion principally consists of material suitable for making rough paper; the heavier is automatically delivered on to a revolving table, where it is overlooked by boys, who separate the bones, glass, etc., while the clinkers and organic matter are ground up in a kollergag. This ground material is sent out from the works for manure. The heavier and smaller pieces which pass through the one and a half-inch mesh of the second riddle are again received on a traveling band and mechanically sifted through a half-inch mesh which divides them into two qualities, ashes, which are automatically delivered into barges, and "breeze." This "breeze" consists to a great extent of small pieces of coal and other organic material, and is used by the company as fuel, being burned in their boilers. To prevent any disagreeable smell the draught for the fires is obtained by exhausting with a fan and the products of combustion passed through an ordinary "scrubber," thus avoiding all nuisance. The paper-making materials are at once run into a common brown casing paper on the premises. Never was a paper-mill with a sixty-inch machine got into a smaller space. The company are now making about fifteen hundred pounds of brown paper in twelve hours. With more space and by more judicious sorting and treatment of the materials to hand the company would without doubt be enabled to increase the value of the paper which they make. The works are sufficiently large to be capable of treating a load of dust in about six minutes. The refuse received in the morning leaves the works as finished paper in the afternoon.

FREAK OF NATURE.

A Picture of Spokane Falls in the Eye of a Horse.

Some rare and unaccountable freak of nature has made a natural wonder of an unassuming white horse at Spokane Falls, Wash., says the St. Louis Republic. The wonder is not the horse himself, but in a picture which covers the front part of the left eye of the animal. Anyone who has ever had the pleasure of a visit to Spokane will remember the falls which give the city its other name; that is, the name of Spokane Falls. The picture in the horse's eye is a perfect miniature of the falls, island, mill and all. The animal's optic has been examined by hundreds of persons, including photographers, scientists, opticians, etc., and the miniature in the eye has been carefully compared with photographs and engravings of the falls, and all have concurred in pronouncing it a wonder of wonders and a most remarkably correct picture. The owner of this wonderful creature, a Mr. Deakin, has been offered all the way from five thousand dollars to ten thousand dollars for his curiosity, but so far he has refused all offers, seeming to prefer being pestered to death by sight-seers, who come by the thousands to view the uncanny picture and ask questions. A traveler, C. A. Dillman, who took a peep at the "Wonder of the Rockies" last summer, has the following to say in regard to the horse and the picture: "Mr. Deakin sent the horse around to the hotel where I stopped, in order that I might see him. The animal is white in color and of medium size. I was somewhat skeptical about the story of the picture until I had looked into the horse's left eye. Judge of my astonishment when I saw therein depicted a perfect reproduction of the fall of the Spokane river, as true to life as any photograph. The part of the falls shown is from the waterworks across to the mills. The island on which the waterworks building stands is also shown. The picture is absolutely perfect in every detail. The horse is one of a number bought in by horse-dealers, and has been the property of the present owner (who, by the way, was the discoverer of the picture) but a short while."

He Wanted a Sure Thing.

A traveling theatrical manager recently wrote to the owner of a hall in a small town in the state of Washington for a booking. He received the following answer: "Yours to hand. I won't play on shairs no more. Your cumpany will hav to send me ten Dollars for one night and supply thair own kerroseen and lamps. They will allso hav to build thair own staige, becaus the last cumpany broke it down. Thair ain't no money in plaing on shairs in this town, and I wont a shure thing."

Postage Stamps.

There are about 6,000 varieties of postage stamps now used by the various nations of the world. The museum of the Berlin post office alone contains a collection of between 4,000 and 5,000 different specimens of these little colored pasters. Half of this number are European stamps—the remainder divided between America, Asia, Africa and Australia.

The [illegible] is one of the shortest men in the peerage. He is a great favorite of the queen, but seldom finds time to go to court. PRINCE ALBERT, NOV. 2, 1892.

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION.

The Board of Education for the Territories met at Regina last week, and as usual did some half way work. A peculiar feature of this August body was the hole and corner way in which they did their business. Reporters were excluded from their meetings, and forsooth. Why? Were they ashamed of their labors? They might justly be ashamed of the acts of their forefathers in the Education System now in vogue in the Territories. Our school school system, today, is worse than it was in its infancy over six years ago. It has been run by a number of fosils, men who had smuttering enough of school work to think they new everything about an ideal School System. No province in Canada has undergone so many changes in school affairs, as the North-West in a corresponding length of time, and yet every change has been for the worse, resulting in a system that will prove not only unjust to the great majority of schools, but debasing; the system of paying by results.

The sooner such an obnoxious system is abolished the better for the schools and the more credit will redound to the intelligence of those who make our laws.

Some years ago a copy book was foisted upon the people of these Territories that was a disgrace to any civilized country, and why such an imposition was ever allowed to be perpetrated upon the people, we are not prepared to say; but there is one thing certain, it was not upon the recommendation of the teachers, who have time and time again protested against it, but without avail. Why, this exalted body, at one time, sent out an imperative command, that if the McMillan copy book was not used, the government grant would be withheld from such schools as disobeyed the dictates of this FAMILY COMPACT. And now, low and behold! this ideal copy book is to be discarded. Thanks for the new and intelligent blood on school matters that has been added to the Board of Education, men who know how and what to teach, and no doubt wisely councilled by the leader of the new Executive. No doubt, only for these men, the cry would still come from Macedon, commanding the use of the most obnoxious copy book ever forced on an intelligent people.

It was also recommended that the present Normal System be extended to Alberta and Saskatchewan. This we have contended for, so that in future, the advantages of Normal training, heretofore accorded to the teachers of Eastern and Western Assiniboia, will now be extended to the teachers of Alberta and Saskatchewan. Why provisional certificates were granted to some who failed at the recent teachers' examination and not to others is a mystery that can only be solved and planned by this very wonderful body itself. The sooner some definite change be made in the management of our educational affairs the better.

THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNORSHIP.

"It is reported on good authority that Mr. Macdowall, M. P., for Saskatchewan is to be our next Lieutenant-Governor. His appointment would be in harmony with The Standard's contention that a resident should be appointed. It would be highly acceptable to the people of the Territories, and we sincerely hope the rumor is a well founded one."—Regina Standard.

The appointment of Mr. Macdowall, M. P., as the next Lieutenant Governor of the Territories would be most acceptable to the people of Saskatchewan, and we have no doubt to the people of the Territories in general. We believe that in future only residents should be appointed to the gubernatorial chair. The North-West has, among it residents, gentlemen just as capable of filling that distinguished position as those from any of the other provinces. Our country in becoming more and more important as a part of the great Dominion, and those men who identify themselves with its interests, and assist in its building up and development, are the men who should receive the highest honors in the gift of the Government. No man has done more to build up this country than Mr. Macdowall. He has always been foremost in every good work that would advance the interests of the North-West. He has been a resident of Prince Albert for many years; is a successful business man of long experience, and has represented the Saskatchewan District in the Federal Parliament since 1886, and was for a number of years a member of the North-West Council.

We quite agree with The Standard, and believe that the appointment of Mr. Macdowall as our next Lieutenant-Governor will be highly acceptable to the people of the Territories.

THE LORNE EXHIBITION.

In our last issue appeared a communication from Richard Mitchell, Esq., of Duck Lake commenting upon our Fall Exhibition. Mr. Mitchell, before coming to this country was extensively engaged in farming in the old country and knows whereof he speaks. He came to this country last spring, and has travelled considerably throughout this district, so that he has a good general knowledge of the district, its wonderful resources, and its adaptability in particular for mixed farming.

He says, "nothing can be more disheartening than such an exhibition and were I less informed as to the true value of the great resources of the district I would have gone away in disgust."

We quite agree with Mr. Mitchell in the impression a good exhibition of stock, etc., makes upon strangers and intending immigrants, and regret that so little interest was taken in our fall show. If the resources and capabilities of this district were to be measured by the display at the Exhibition there is no doubt people would go away in disgust. Mr. Mitchell has seen the country, has spent the summer, more or less travelling through it, and thus sympathise with those who labored to make the show a success. We have already pointed out the great benefit that may and in fact will result in a first class annual exhibition.

Mr. Mitchell likes the climate and the agricultural resources of the Saskatchewan and no doubt is the forerunner of a very large immigration of practical farmers, and his observations have been such as to convince him that there is no district superior to this for the classes of people he represents.

The Royal Commission appointed to enquire into the working of the liquor laws of Canada was more or less of surprise to prohibitionists and others as neither had much faith of its coming to maturity at its introduction into parliament. However, it is now in operation and the principal centres throughout the Dominion are given the opportunity of giving their evidence for and against the present liquor laws and we are pleased to state that amongst other centres Prince Albert has been included. We are satisfied that material good will result from the same as we are composed of all classes possessed of wide experience under different license laws as well as the old North West permit system besides the majority of our leading citizens are deeply interested in the workings of the present license system and some important evidence will no doubt be given. The old permit system proved to be a failure on account of it not being enforced as it should have been and the act now in operation was hailed with satisfaction and it is now opportune to find out if we are any better off. Heretofore we have not prepared to express an opinion.

When the present act came into force we expected the liquor law, such as it was, would be properly enforced, knowing the men who composed the Board of License Commissions. They done fairly well for a time and done some good work, but owing to misunderstanding between them and the Executive they relaxed their duty and matters were allowed to go at will for a time. The N. W. M. Police officer here has been keeping his men more vigilant than they have been since the rebellion year, but we contend that they are not the proper parties to carry out the liquor law, and for the maintainance of our good name we hope that some proper understanding will be arrived at between the proper authorities so that the system can be carried out satisfactory. The Royal Commission may bring out some important facts and we hope to be able to make good reports in the future.

A GIGANTIC ALMANAC.

There is a wonderful almanac coming out in Canada, nearly four hundred pages, with colored maps, to be known as the Star Almanic, and to be published by the publishers of the MONTREAL DAILY and WEEKLY STAR. It is to be ready very shortly So much has it it been admired that the publishers have received security for the publication of fifty thousand copies.

Mr. Belanger's Death.

The following particulars with reference to the misfortune which resulted in the lamentable death by drowning of Mr. Chief Factor Horace Belanger and Mr. Frederic Stanley Simpson have been furnished to the Commissioner of the Hudson's Bay Company by the Company's senior clerk at the Norway House, Mr. J. A. Campbell who is well known in Winnipeg:—

"At six o'clock on the morning of the 1st of October Mr. Chief Factor Belanger left Norway House in a Peterboro canoe on a portage trip to Cross Lake and Split Lake; he was accompanied by Mr Frederick Stanley Simpson, who was in the bow, and an Indian named Elijah ..., who was steering, both experienced men. That was the last we heard of them till the afternoon, Oct. 3, when a boat which had been sent from Norway House with supplies to Cross Lake returned here, and two of her crew informed us that Mr Belanger and Stanley Simpson had been drowned at Sea Falls, which are ... miles from the Norway House. The Nelson river at Sea Falls is divided by an island, round which the two branches thus formed run with great ..., there is a ... though gradual drop; the two streams join about thirty yards below the island, the current in both being very swift and strong, and here it is that a canoe has to be launched again at the ice of the island after the portage is made, pushed out into the eddy which in choppy waves towards the island, and then paddled down nearly to the junction of the two currents. As the apex is approached, it is the object of the canoe men to turn their craft and head it straight up stream into the current on the right hand side, and then, with a few swift powerful strokes, edge the canoe across into slack water. It was just on heading into the current as above that the Peterboro upset. A rough diagram is appended to illustrate the scene of the accident. (Mr Campbell here gives a diagram of the locality where the accident occurred, showing the portage, where the canoe upset, spot where the men were last seen, and the bay where the canoe and Mr. Belanger's body were found).

From the Indian who accompanied the ill-fated party I have ascertained the following account of the deplorable occurrence: "We reached Sea Falls a little before mid-day; we made the portage across the island, embarked in the canoe on the other side, and shoved off; just as we were getting out of the eddy into the current, the canoe turned over so suddenly that I was in the water before I could realize what had happened; when I arose to the surface I was close to Mr. Belanger; I tried to take hold of him, but only succeeded in giving him a push on the back towards the canoe as he was and swept out of my reach; being in the stern of the canoe, I was just clear of the current, and was drawn by the eddy towards the island; so was Mr. Simpson's little dog; we both succeeded in landing at the spot from which we had but a few seconds before; I was completely benumbed with the icy water, I looked to see what had become of the other; the canoe was washing along with the stream, bottom up, Mr. Belanger on one side and Mr. Simpson on the other, with their hands joined across the canoe; Mr. Simpson was lying well up on the canoe and he was apparently making a desperate effort to sustain Mr. Belanger. The latter called out to me to come to him; they were already so far off and travelling so fast that I could not have overtaken them even if I felt equal to make the attempt; I called back to know what it was possible for me to do; I could hear them talking to one another as they were carried away. Just as they were dissappearing from my view around a point 300 yards off, I saw a splash as if Mr. Simpson had fallen off the canoe and was struggling in the water; I also noticed a dark object at the side of the canoe, which I took to be Mr. Belanger's head still above water. That was

THE LAST GLIMPSE

I had of the canoe or of the unfortunate gentlemen. Meanwhile, Mr. Simpson's dog, on seing his master swept away, had jumped into the water again and followed the canoe. He got ashore on the mainland, where I afterwards saw the faithful animal running about as if in quest of his master, and heard him howling dismally all night. I remained on the island all Saturday. Sunday and Monday morning till about ten o'clock, when the boat from Cross lake came along and found me. During that time I did not eat nor sleep. Fortunately, I had put a few matches in a tin box on Saturday morning, which enabled me to light a fire, or I believe I would have perished from exposure and cold. The crew were horrified to hear my story; they had observed no signs of the canoe or its late occupants; they turned back with me, and we hunted all along the shore; in a little bay about a mile from the falls we discovered the canoe, bottom up as I had last seen it, and poor Mr. Belanger, with the painter tied around his right wrist. The canoe was empty with the exception of a small axe, which had been placed under the apron; we searched for Mr. Simpson's body but could find no trace of it. We tried to catch his dog, but it ran off into the bush and we could not get near him."

A DEAD HERO

Continuing, Mr. Campbell says: "Such is the melancholy narrative we gathered, with the aid of many questions, from the sole survivor of this ill fated trip. Poor Mr. Belanger could not swim at all, Stanley Simpson was a powerful swimmer, and could easily have reached the shore had he thought more of himself and less of his helpless companion. We can only surmise the full extent taken by him in this tragic affair; but this much we can be pretty well assured of—he held Mr. Belanger up as long as he could, securing him to the canoe as a forlorn hope, and finally exhausted with his tremendous exertions and paralyzed with the intensity cold water, relinquished his grasp and sank to rise no more. He did his duty as he always did, even to the extent of laying down his life for his master and friend.

"Mr. Belanger's body was conveyed across the river to the company's grave yard and buried there; the Rev Mr. Evesfeed the burial service. All the people in the neighborhood attended to testify their respect and affection for the deceased gentleman. Profound gloom has been cast over the entire community. The Indians know full well that they have indeed lost a friend in Mr. Belanger, and they keenly feel the ... Stanley Simpson, who was universally esteemed for his straightforward, manly and wholesouled character.

Unfortunately at last accounts Mr. Simpson's body had not been recovered, although a search was ... every effort will continue ... the hope of finding the body.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, Oct. ... 24 189.

At 1:40 yesterday, Mrs Harrison died. Dr. Scott, Mrs Harrison's venerable father, and her brother, ... were the only members of the family not present. When ... Dr. Gardener was in an adjoining room and was not present when the patient passed to the dark valley. From 1 o'clock Mrs. Harrison was in a semi-conscious, a coma, her breathing being barely perceptible and her respiration gradually decreased, until 1:40 when she passed away. Her death was as peaceful as a child in sweet repose. President Harrison was at the right side of his wife in a reclining position from 1 o'clock when Dr. Gardner notified the family that the end was close at hand. In this position he remained until 1:40, when life was thought to be extinct, and Lieutenant Parker, who was at the bedside, called in Dr. Gardner, and the experienced eye of the physician soon detected that Mrs. Harrison was no more. The president gave way to an almost audible outburst of grief, but soon surpressed his emotion, and endeavored to console Mrs. McKee, his daughter.

Mrs. Morton has informed her friends that she and her husband will occupy their house here next winter and society people are rejoicing, for the Vice President's wife is highly appreciated for her many excellencies and kind sociability.

The antique has been the rage in furniture. It is now said that it will be the fashion in female dress this winter to the extent that the low, short-waisted Grecian bodice is to be worn by those who like it, which includes the ultra fashionable and the superlatively foolish. If youthful women who have beautiful busts and lovely white arms see and feel no objection to this primitive, antique, Elenic style of dress we must suppose it all right. It is to be hoped however that the aged, the obese, and the thin and bony, will have the esthetic sense to cover up their nakedness, even if the exposure is not contra bonos mores.

If the ladies must shorten their dresses why not for their own comfort and for ordinary cleanliness cut them off at the bottom instead at the top. What a nuisance a trailing skirt is? How inconvenient, hampering and tiresome to the feeble woman who must hold it up, manipulate it and kick it along the pavement. What eternal vigilance is required to keep it out of street nastiness and what glimpses of dirt are revealed about the heels of otherwise nicely dressed ladies! The streets abound in animal droppings, old cigars, disgusting spits and nameless filth, and this is the stuff that is caught and rolled along, like a morsel under the tongue of a sinner, by the long heavy mop like skirt which the hopeless victim must drop at times though she tries ever so hard to keep it above suspicion.

As election time approaches the claims of all parties, (the populist must be counted in) become more confident and the situation more bewildering. O. O. Stealy, correspondent of the Louisville Courier, an Indiana man, has just bet $500 with B. F. Andrews that his state will be carried by Cleveland and he says that the feeling at Democratic headquarters is that the Democrats will carry every doubtful state. Chairman Murphy declares that Democratic prospects in New York are bright. On the contrary ex-Senator Platt asserts that he is satisfied with the outlook in that state and he and Senator Aldrich are confident that Harrison will carry Connecticut, and Elkins and Goff claim West Virginia.

Secretary Chas. Foster explains that campaign contributions are spent for reading matter, postage, list books, buggy hire and other traveling expenses, hire of clerks, canvassers, and brass bands, and for uniforms, halls and speakers. He estimates that about $250,000 is legitimately spent in a Presidential election in Ohio. 3,000 Republican speakers are holding meetings in New York alone, or 2,000 meetings every day.

Colonizing repeating and vote buying are practiced in some localities, and there is reason to suspect that the large sums which are sometimes raised during the last hours and rushed into close districts or close states are corruptly used. If you have anything to contribute, give it in good season when the probabilities are that it will be honestly spent.

HE QUIT THE DOCTOR.

Gentlemen,—I was troubled with dyspepsia for about four years and tried several remedies but found them of little use. I noticed an advertisement of Burdock Blood Bitters, so I quit the doctor, and started to use B. B. B., and soon found that their was nothing to equal it. It took just three bottles to effect a cure in my case, and I can highly recommend this excellent remedy to all.

It is a singular fact that the cheapness of an article should even temporarily retard its sale, and yet that was the experience of Messrs. Tuckett & Son in the introduction of their now famous "Myrtle Navy" tobacco People who had been in the habit of smoking the finest Virginia tobacco could not for a time be made to believe that they were offered the same article at about one half the old price, and it was only by slow degree that they were induced to put the question to the test of an actual trial. When they did adopt that test, however, it never failed to satisfy them.

It seems that an unusually attractive CHRISTMAS NUMBER of The Dominion Illustrated Monthly is to be issued, and the public will await its arrival with interest. If the publishers announcement is correct, the number will be a remarkably rich one, and speak volumes for Canadian skill and enterprise. Its large colored supplements will be an especially strong feature; one of them—a 32-page work, illustrating the "Ups and Downs of Canadian Political Life" will be eagerly looked for in view of recent events.

In addition to his local newspaper, a business man, to keep up with the times, should regularly read some reliable business paper One that is devoted to trade in general must, we think, prove the most valuable to the merchant or manufacturer who aims to be well-informed Such a journal is the Toronto Monetary Times, the handsome special Fall edition of which is just to hand Between its artistically designed covers in brown and gold, the reader will find a fair amplitude of the ground that is covered in each week's issue From the contents it is not difficult to see how this journal, for the past 25 years, has been universally accorded the leading place.

"August Flower"

The Hon J. W. Fennimore is the Sheriff of Kent Co., Del., and lives at Dover, the County Seat and Capital of the State. The sheriff is a gentleman fifty-nine years of age, and this is what he says: "I have "used your August Flower for several years in my family and for my "own use, and found it does me "more good than any other remedy. "I have been troubled with what I "call Sick Headache. A pain comes "in the back part of my head first, "and then soon a general headache "until I become sick and vomit. "At times, too, I have a fullness "after eating, a pressure after eating "at the pit of the stomach, and "sourness, when food seemed to rise "up in my throat and mouth. When "I feel this coming on if I take a "little August Flower it relieves "me, and is the best remedy I have "ever taken for it. For this reason "I take it and recommend it to "others as a great remedy for Dyspepsia, &c."

6th HALF-YEARLY COMPETITION

The most Interesting Contest ever offered by The Canadian Agriculturist.

One Thousand Dollars in Cash, a Pair of Handsome Shetland Ponies, Carriage and Harness, and over two thousand other valuable prizes for the Agriculturist's brightest readers! Who will have them? According to the usual custom for some years past the publishers of THE AGRICULTURIST now offer the Sixth Half-yearly Literary Competition. This grand competition will, no doubt, be the most gigantic and successful the ever presented to the people of the United States and Canada.

One Thousand Dollars in cash will be paid to the person sending in the largest list of English words constructed from letters in the words "The Canadian Agriculturist."

Five Hundred Dollars in cash will be given to the second largest list.

A Handsome Pair of Shetland Ponies, Carriage and Harness, will be given for the third largest list.

Over one thousand additional prizes awarded in order of merit: One Grand Piano; $300 Organ; $300 Piano; Dinner Sets; Ladies' Gold Watches; Silk Dress Patterns; Portiere Curtains; Silver Tea Services; Tennyson's Poems, bound in cloth; Dickens in 12 volumes, bound in cloth, etc.

As there are more than 2000 prizes, any one who takes the trouble to prepare an ordinary good list will not fail to receive a valuable prize. This is the biggest thing in the competition line that we have ever placed before the public, and all who do not take part will miss an opportunity of a life time.

RULES—1. A letter cannot be used oftner than it appears in the words "The Canadian Agriculturist." For instance the word "egg" could not be used, as there is but one "g" in the three words. 2. Words having more than one meaning but spelled the same can be used but once. 3. Names of places and persons barred. 4 Errors will not invalidate a list—the wrong words will simply not be counted.

Each list must contain one dollar to pay for a six month's subscription to THE AGRICULTURIST. If two or more tie, the list ... which bears the earliest postmark will take the first prize, and the others will receive prizes in order of merit. United States money and stamps taken at par.

The object in offering these magnificent prizes is to introduce our popular magazine into new homes, in every part of the American continent.

Every competitor enclosing 30 cents in stamps extra, will receive free, by mail, ... THE AGRICULTURIST ... Souvenir Spoons of Canada.

Prizes awarded to persons residing in the United States will be shipped from our New York office free of duty. All money letters should be registered.

OUR FORMER COMPETITIONS—We have given away $25,000 in prizes during the last two years, and have thousands of letters from prize winners in every state in the union and every part of Canada and Newfoundland. RHEUMATISM NERVOUS DISEASES Etc. Etc. CAN BE CURED

PAT. AUG. 16. 87.

ELECTRICITY, AS APPLIED BY THE OWEN ELECTRIC BELT AND APPLIANCES,

Is now recognised as the greatest boon offered to suffering humanity. It is fast taking the place of drugs in all nervous and rheumatic troubles, and will effect cures in seemingly hopeless cases where every other known means has failed. It is Nature's remedy, and by its steady, soothing current that is readily felt, POSITIVELY CURES Nervous Prostration, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Kidney Disease, Varicocele, Lumbago, Lame Back and Dyspepsia.

RHEUMATISM

"For twenty years I have been a martyr to rheumatism, suffering at times the most excruciating pains, from which I could get no relief, for doctors' medicines, painkiller, etc., had no effect on me, and it was only when I got the Owen Electric Belt that I began to get well. I am thoroughly cured, and have been so for months. The Belt's action was most marvellous, removing the pain in a few days."—H. SCHMIDT, 82 Vanauley street, Toronto.

NERVOUS DISEASES

Thousands of people suffer from a variety of nervous diseases such as Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Lost Manhood, etc., that the old modes of treatment fail to cure. There is a loss of nerve force or power that cannot be restored by any medical treatment, and any doctor who would try to accomplish this by any kind of drugs is practising a dangerous form of charlatanism. Electricity—as applied by the Owen Electric Belt and Suspensory—is the only known remedial agent that will supply what is lacking, namely, nerve force or power, impart tone and vigor to the organs, and arouse to healthy action the whole nervous system.

KIDNEY DISEASE

"Your Belt has done wonders for me. It stopped the bleeding of my kidneys which were so bad that the doctors failed to help me. I am satisfied it saved my life, and I am a wonder to everybody who knew how bad I was."—W. PETERSON, Bluevale, Ont.

LUMBAGO AND LAME BACK

"On the advice of my doctor, after everything else failed, I got an Owen Electric Belt for a severe attack of lumbago and weak back. At that time I was so bad I could not stand up without assistance, so intense the pain. After wearing the Belt for a short time the pains are all gone and I am as well as ever. I know it was the Belt cured me, and I would not be without it for $100."—W. J. LEWIS, conductor C.P.R., Owen Sound, Ont.

DYSPEPSIA

"For over four years I have been a sufferer from indigestion, catarrh and nervous prostration, and spent hundreds of dollars on doctors and drugs without any benefit. I purchased the Owen Electric Belt about four months ago, and have worn it since with the most beneficial results, for I am perfectly well and free from every trouble."—A. McDOUGALL, Macville, Ont.

WE CHALLENGE THE WORLD

To show an electric belt where the current is under the control of the patient as completely as this. We can use the same belt on an infant that we would on a giant by simply reducing the current. Other belts have been in the market for five or ten years longer, but to-day there are more Owen Belts manufactured and sold than all other makes combined.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS AND CHEAP BELTS

Our Trade Mark is the portrait of Dr. A. Owen embossed in gold upon every Belt and Appliance manufactured by the Owen Electric Belt and Appliance Co. None genuine without it.
